TSCA... WELCOME TO DALLAS!

Wondering what there is to do in Dallas?

Let's analyze this question in the following four ways:

- ❶ Tourist attractions
- ❷ Shopping
- ❸ Eateries
- ❹ Nightlife!

Welcome to Big D! We would like to welcome you to the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex. Haven't visited Dallas in a while? The readers of Style magazine named this area one of the nation's top cultural tourism destinations. And it's no small wonder they did. With museums, galleries, and public art and performance venues, Dallas' rich diversity and heritage are visible on practically every corner. From the legendary Pegasus atop the City's famed Magnolia Building to the world-class Nasher Sculpture Center and Morton H. Meyerson Symphony Center, Dallas soars when it comes to creative expression.

Some special places you might want to consider visiting are The Dallas Arboretum, one of the most magnificent gardens in the nation, a visual banquet that is ablaze in color year-round. The fragrant gardens and lush lawns, on the shores of an enchanting lake that overlooks Downtown Dallas, also feature intriguing sculptures, sparkling fountains, and two historic mansions. Another great destination is the Dallas Museum of Art. During our stay, they'll be featuring the powerful granite sculpture "weavings" of Texas artist Jesús Moroles in the FINA Foundation Gallery. Feeling adventurous? Visit Reunion tower for a 68 second elevator ride taking you 55 stories to the top of the Hyatt Regency's tower for a breathtaking 360-degree view of Dallas. The Dallas World Aquarium and Zoological Garden is another great stop where you can explore a South American rainforest or take a walk through a water tunnel surrounded by reef life from the Continental Shelf. One of our newest attractions is The Nasher Sculpture Center, one of the few institutions in the world devoted to the exhibition, study and preservation of modern sculpture. If you love to shop, Dallas is your city! We suggest checking out the bargains at the Grapevine Mills Outlet Mall, the wholesale shops on Harry Hines, the Dallas Galleria home to Macy's, Saks Fifth Avenue and other European stores or North Park Center.

For special dining experiences, you may want to check out one of the restaurants in the North Dallas area such as Nana Grill, off Stemmons at the Market Center exit, Del Frisco's on Spring Valley or Fogo de Chao on Beltline at Midway. Or you might want to venture to the West End Arts District in downtown Dallas where you can find a variety of great dining choices.

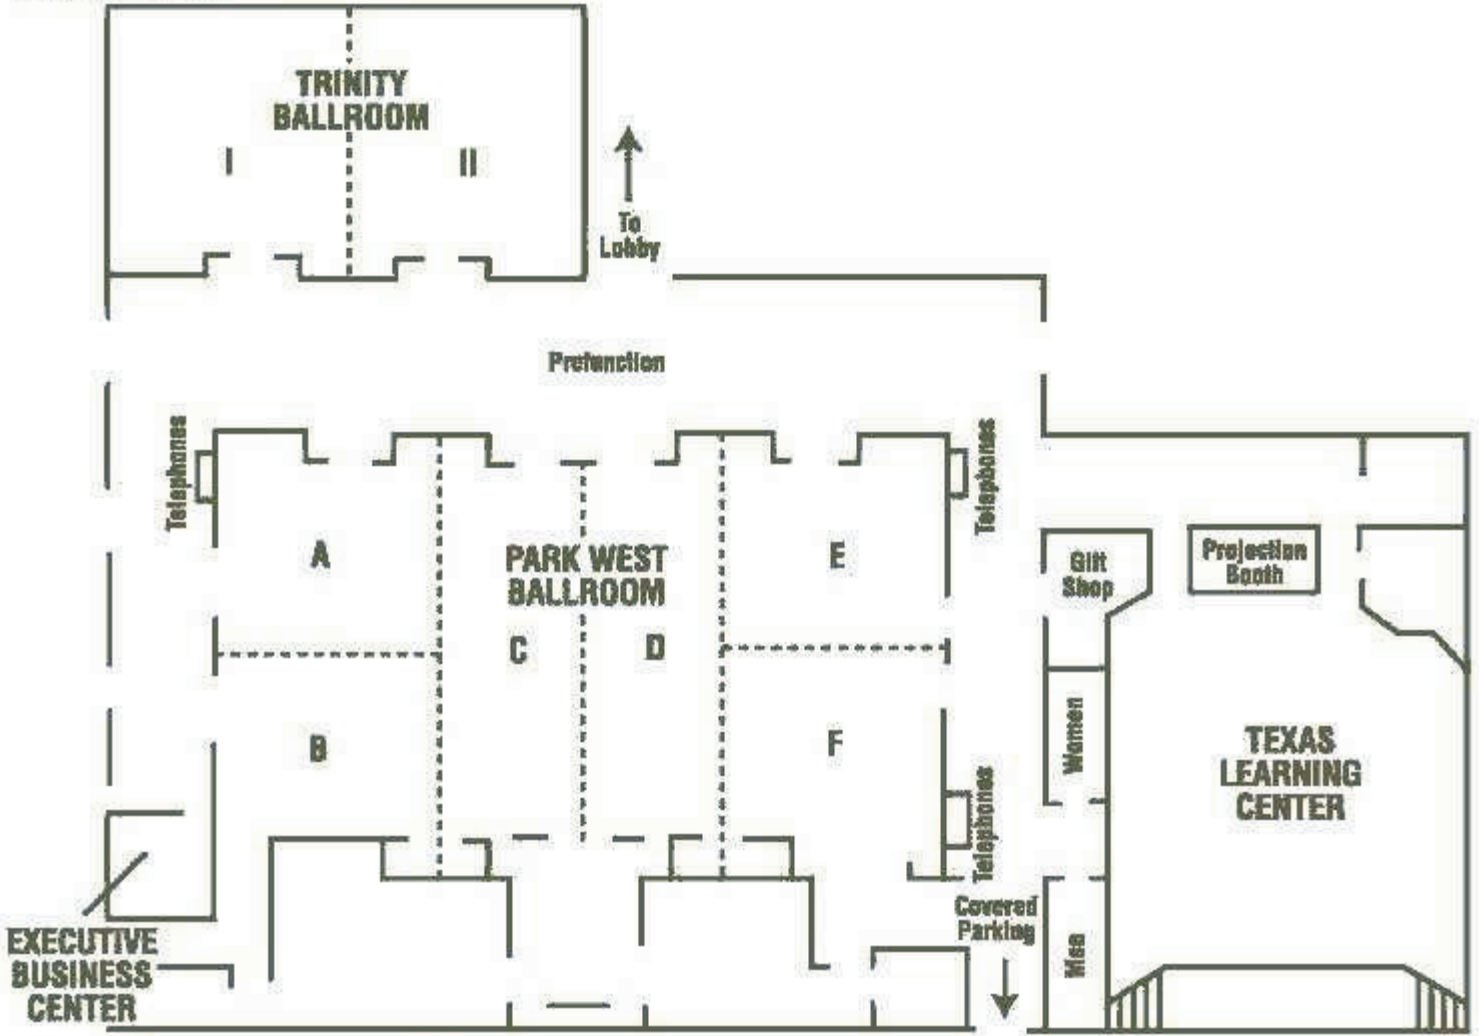

Whatever you decide to do while you're here, we want you to know that you are welcome, Bid D style!

Enjoy your visit to "Big D"

Dear Members,

Welcome to the 2004 Texas Speech Communication Association Conference. I hope you enjoy the programs this year. I am impressed with the variety we are offering – it points to the power of our diversity. My hope is that after experiencing the variety of panels, you return home knowing you were able to re-examine your classroom instruction through Service-Learning and Communication. I have enjoyed serving you this year. I have grown as an educator, communicator, and person.

Specifically, I deeply appreciate your ability to embrace the on-line program submission process. Although it presented some frustration, I found the web registration to be invaluable in preparing this program. Brent Hinkle, Joy of Tournaments founder, deserves praise for his patience with me and us as TSCA moved into the technological 21st century. I must also thank Ann Shofner and Natalie Bryant for their continual support and guidance. It has been my goal to provide leadership worthy of your organization. The Executive Council was incredible. I never found a problem that they could not effectively and efficiently solve. The local arrangement committee: YOU ROCK! Thank you for finding the fun and creativity in hosting this event. Finally, I need to thank my family, both at work and home. My wife Tara was always supportive, appreciative, and patient. The West Texas A&M University faculty and students – you continue to push and inspire me. I am excited to learn from you this weekend.

I am thrilled to invite you to Conference 2004 – Service-Learning and Communication: Engaging students, engaging community, engaging education.

Respectfully,

RUSSELL LOWERY-HART
PRESIDENT, TSCA 2003-2004

Dear Members,

Well, here we are again...Convention time! If you will refer back to your convention program from 1992, you will see my thoughts and ideas on what convention means to me. But seriously, I am so excited about this year's convention and learning more from my friends and colleagues. I appreciate the faith that was placed in me by the Executive Committee to get this program put together.

I first heard about service learning from Russell Lowery-Hart and loved the idea. I have incorporated service learning into my classroom activities. I hope that, after convention, you will too, if you are not already an advocate. There are some great programs this year and I want to thank the interest group chairs who worked so hard on getting them put together and submitted.

When I left convention last year, I certainly didn't think I would be helping with this year's convention program. We all know that circumstances change and that we have no control over most of them. Fortunately for me, Russell, Natalie Bryant, and Brent Hinkle were all there to help with the task at hand. Thanks to all of them for their guidance, their support and especially to Brent for his computer skills and hours sitting at the computer assisting Russell and I with the program. Thanks to Bill Schuetz for picking such a wonderful hotel for us and for helping me with this job. Thanks to my principal, Mr. Bob Daniel, for his confidence in me. Thanks to my friends who offered all their help and support after questioning my sanity. And finally, thanks to my family who never fail to come through for me.

Attend programs! Get involved with an interest group! Learn something new! But most of all, have a great time!

Respectfully,

ANN SHOFNER

VICE-PRESIDENT, TSCA 2004

TSCA Conference 2005 Call for Papers and Panels

Multifaceted ACCOUNTABILITY:
Helping Administrators, Teachers, Parents and Students
Make Personal Accountability a Core Value

The Moody Gardens
Seven Hope Blvd, Galveston, Texas 75234
(409) 741 - 8484

October 5 - 8, 2005

We have many challenges facing us today in education regarding ACCOUNTABILITY, and it will take a combined effort of administrators, teachers, parents and students working together to support active learning both in subject matter and character. Therefore, our conference challenges it's members to find ways we can make accountability a core value by creating programs that:

- Challenge administrators to plan the design and development of an educational system aligned with the nation's expectations using the knowledge of the 21st Century realities;
- Encourage teachers to set higher standards and expectations for their students and incorporate teaching strategies that challenge the minds of their clients as opposed to teaching to a "Test".
- Promote parent involvement in all aspects of their child's learning so that true learning and admirable character traits can be emphasized and reinforced at home; and
- Motivate students to embrace their education by taking responsibility for their intellectual, social, and emotional growth and to overcome selfishness by participating in giving back to society.

Send all program information to Vice President Natalie Bryant, South Plains College, 1401 S. College Avenue, Box 215, Levelland, TX 79336 or submit panels online at: www.joyoftournaments.com/tsca

Deadline: March 1, 2005

- Send all membership and 2005 conference registration material to: Randy Cox, TSCA Executive Secretary: mrcox@mail.utexas.edu

PAST PRESIDENT'S LUNCHEON:
THURSDAY, 12:00 P.M. WINE ROOM.

NEW MEMBER'S LUNCHEON:
THURSDAY, 12:00 P.M. HUNTER'S.

All new TSCA members are invited to attend and learn more about the Texas Speech Communication Association organization. Please Sign Up for the Luncheon at registration.

CONFERENCE LUNCHEON:
FRIDAY, 11:50 A.M. PARK WEST D,E,F.

In addition to showcasing our Communicator of the Year and Keynote Speaker, the luncheon will highlight the Educators of the Year 2004 recipients.
Tickets must be purchased at registration.

PROFESSOR'S PERFORMANCE HOUR –
RINGING THOSE SOUTHERN BELLES
FRIDAY, 5:00 – 6:00 P.M. PARK WEST D,E,F.

The greatest strength of oral interpretation as an instructional tool is that it highlights the universality of human emotion and gives listeners the option to examine what is foreign and unfamiliar to them. The performance will demonstrate the dichotomy between the humor and the reality of being southern women and will examine how far we have come since the days of "Gone with the Wind."

TSCA Conference 2005 Call for Papers and Panels

Multifaceted ACCOUNTABILITY: Helping Administrators, Teachers, Parents and Students Make Personal Accountability a Core Value

The Moody Gardens
Seven Hope Blvd, Galveston, Texas 75234
(409) 741 - 8484

October 5 - 8, 2005

NOTES:

In April 1983, the National Commission on Excellence in Education released the report A Nation at Risk. The most famous line of the widely publicized report confirmed “the educational foundations of our society are presently being eroded by a rising tide of mediocrity that threatens our very future as a Nation and a People” (U.S. Department of Education, 1983). Even though the report had limitations, it had a strong impact on American education. Most notably, the report led to comprehensive school reform efforts, was the impetus for the academic-standards movement, drew attention to the importance of education policy, and led to a focus on school accountability (Weiss, 2003).

Accountability - the idea of holding universities, colleges, schools, districts, administrators, educators, parents and students responsible for results – has become the watchword in education. The “new” accountability, enshrined in federal law since the mid-1990s and a major emphasis of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001, has focused on student performance, public reporting of achievement results, and consequences for schools attached to performance (Fuhrman, 1999). In practice, the push for accountability has encountered some problems. In fact two decades later, according to the Koret Task Force, a group organized by the Hoover Institution and Stanford University to study the status of education reform, there has been “uneven” implementation and only minor gains in academic achievement during this time. A Nation at Risk did a good job of pointing out the problems in American schools, but was not able to identify the fundamental reasons for the problems (Peterson, 2003).

Finally, to assume that high test scores on school subjects predicts such desirable personal and social attributes as civility, decency, civicness, honesty, dependability, compassion, creativity, and even good work habits is foolishness. Apathy and the “it’s all about ME” mindset run rampant across all levels from administration down through the students. Those that believe academic learning is the sole purpose of schooling should be aware that even students who do well on tests commonly fail to connect what they appear to have mastered to their lived experiences.

We have many challenges facing us today in education regarding ACCOUNTABILITY, and it will take a combined effort of administrators, teachers, parents and students working together to support active learning both in subject matter and character. Therefore, our conference challenges it’s members to find ways we can make accountability a core value by creating programs that:

- Challenge administrators to plan the design and development of an educational system aligned with the nation’s expectations using the knowledge of the 21st Century realities;
- Encourage teachers to set higher standards and expectations for their students and incorporate teaching strategies that challenge the minds of their clients as opposed to teaching to a “Test”.
- Promote parent involvement in all aspects of their child’s learning so that true learning and admirable character traits can be emphasized and reinforced at home; and
- Motivate students to embrace their education by taking responsibility for their intellectual, social, and emotional growth and to overcome selfishness by participating in giving back to society.

Send all program information to Vice President Natalie Bryant, South Plains College, 1401 S. College Avenue, Box 215, Levelland, TX 79336 or submit panels online at: www.joyoftournaments.com/tsca

4:00 – 5:00PM.....TFA MEETING #2TEXAS LEARNING CENTER

4:00 – 5:00PM :: INTEREST GROUP MEETINGS

- Instructional Development (College & University) Park West A
- Org/Interp..... Park West B
- TACA212

Interest Group Meetings provide an opportunity to meet with TSCA members who have common interest and suggest program ideas for the 2005 convention. At these meetings, you may volunteer to submit a program, present a paper, or create a performance.

5:00 – 6:00PM PROFESSOR’S PERFORMANCE HOUR PARK WEST D, E, F

The greatest strength of oral interpretation as an instructional tool is that it highlights the universality of human emotion and gives listeners the option to examine what is foreign and unfamiliar to them. The performance will demonstrate the dichotomy between the humor and the reality of being southern women and will examine how far we have come since the days of “Gone with the Wind.”

H-1..... PARK WEST C/D

TOC: WILL THE QUEST FOR THE HOLY GRAIL SAVE CAMELOT?

- Sponsor: Arg. and Debate
- Chair: John Lemaster - Alief Hastings High School
- Coordinator: Cecil Trent - Memorial High School
- Presenters: David Johnson, Bellaire High School
Aaron Timmons, The Greenhill School

Innovations in communication technologies, as well as economies of scale and debate workshops have created a national level of debate competition that is very different from its state and regional counterparts. Is this national homogeneity in forensics good for the coaches and the students involved or are the competitive urges destroying the educational value of the activity.

H-2..... TEXAS LEARNING CENTER

PERFORMANCE A TO Z

- Sponsor: Oral Interp/Perf Studies
- Chair: Lou Ann Seabourn, Amarillo College
- Coordinator: Kathy McIntire, West Texas A&M University
- Presenters: Robert Powell, Katy High School
Ron Dodson
Karen Wilbanks, Plano Sr. High

Participants will discuss different performance styles. They will include what works and what doesn't; what's hot and what's not. This program is to introduce the audience to different performance styles not to tell coaches which style is best/right.

H-3..... PARK WEST B

IDEOLOGY, POWER, RHETORIC:
CHALLENGES, RESPONSES, AND ADDENDUMS TO RHETORICAL THEORY

- Sponsor: Rhetoric
 - Chair/Coord: Brian Lain, University of North Texas
 - Respondent: Jason Teven, West Texas A&M University
 - Presenters: University of North Texas
- | | |
|-------------------------------------|-------------------|
| Paths Edged with Thorns, | Jenny Warren |
| Fins de Siecle | Travis Neal |
| The Immanence of Power | Matt May |
| A Look into Excess | Christine Snowden |
| Teaching Ideology, Power & Rhetoric | Brian Lain |

All of the papers on this panel come out of a graduate seminar on Marxism, poststructuralism and rhetoric held during the Fall of 2003. Each paper takes up a different intersection between the discipline of rhetorical studies and ideology. Addressing the positionality of the critic, apocalyptic rhetoric, ideological criticism, and materialist rhetoric, these papers add to the richness of rhetorical theory by integrating the work of social or philosophical thinkers on issues such as language structure, subject formation, identification, and power relations in order to assist in comprehending the role, status, and limits of rhetoric in society.
